

Roofline

THE McLeods Roofline system eliminates the need for costly and time-consuming maintenance by removing existing timber and replacing it with high quality upvc. Existing eaves and soffits not only influence the aesthetics of any home, they also allow airflow to circulate around cavities and the roof space, preventing dry rot and other timber infestations. It's an ongoing battle to keep the roofline looking good, either by painting and varnishing existing wood. Inevitably that's costly and time-consuming. The McLeods Roofline system solves both problems, giving the home a fantastic clean look and encouraging air flow.
