

Glass Balustrading

Glass ballustrading is becoming more and more popular in modern homes, developments and commercial centres due to its durability and aesthetics. We use only toughened safety glass in our ballustrading systems to meet current building standards where we work with clients to get the best design for the application. The stainless steel system which we use is highly durable to the climate and the rigours of outdoors use. The system can come in a variety of types with a standard handrail system to the wrap around rail system or even the eternity system for maximum viewing. The glazing can be changed to coloured glass to change the looks of the balustrade or even sandblast motifs or styling can be introduced to give the individuality to the balustrade. Our showroom has a balustrade display to show what can be achieved when using our system and we can discuss your requirement in more detail and supply a competitive quotation from drawings or if required a site survey carried out by the McLeods glazing team.
